Jew-Baiters In Rumania Defy Government Edict

Heligoland Rearm

LONDON (Spl.)—Despite the fact that England's consent was never sought or given, the Island of Heligoland is being re-fortified by the Nazis as shown in the picture at left. This strategic island, shown on the map, was ceded to Germany by Great Britain in 1890. The airview below shows the fortifications (indicated by the crosses) which Germany was forced to dismantle after the World War. At the top is one of the big guns being taken from its emplacement.

The British House of Commons heard a discussion of the situation recently.

On Way Up

HOLLYWOOD (Spl.)—Scoring repeated successes, June Travis, Jewish screen actress, continues on her way to stardom. On Hollywood streets she attracts considerable attention by her youthful beauty and modish dress. In the picture below she is wearing white tam, gloves and "water bottle" bag.

Disorders Continue Despite Order That They Be Halted

BUCHAREST (JTA)—Defying Premier Tătărescu's order to suppress all terroristic activities, Nazi and Jew-baiting disorders continued throughout Rumania.

Although the Premier, who reformed the Government after having submitted his Cabinet's resignation, declared the shake-up was intended to end terrorism of both rightist and leftist parties, political and diplomatic circles see in the new regime a prelude to a semi-Nazi government.

Ion Inculeț, former Interior Minister and King Carol's right-hand man, instead of having been dropped as reported, was elevated to the newly-created post of vice premier. M. Inculeț has been regarded as chiefly responsible for toleration of Fascist activities.

The fact that the government has been reorganized with practically the same ministers as in the previous Cabinet with the sole exception of Nicholas Titulescu, ex-foreign minister regarded as pro-French, was regarded in diplomatic circles as an indication that Rumania would follow Poland's example of adopting a more independent attitude towards France. At the same time, observers foresaw a rapprochement with Germany.

This was generally believed to be the chief reason for throwing Titulescu into the discard. Victor Antonescu, the new foreign minister, is known to have many friends in France and to be on intimate terms with many German-Jewish financiers and industrialists in the Reich.

Premier Tătărescu declared: "The wave of terrorism which recently swept over Rumania will be mastered and all disorders will be punished."

M. Tătărescu added that he will disarm immediately all storm battalions of all parties of the right and left.

Since the disorders continued, however, the proposed measures appear to apply only to the democratic Peasants Guard, which opposes the right-wing terrorists, such as the Iron Guard.

General Marinescu, one of King Carol's most intimate friends, was appointed chief of police in the shake-up.

Coughlin Denies He's Anti-Semitic

CHICAGO (JTA)—Father Charles E. Coughlin's publication, Social Justice, last week printed a denial that the Detroit radio priest is anti-Semitic and says that "such an attitude on his part would be illogical, un-Christian and impractical."

This followed a flood of attacks by Gentile and Jewish religious leaders that the Catholic priest addresses before the convention of the National Union for Social Justice two weeks ago were charged with anti-Semitism.

The article declares that Father Coughlin has not confined his strictures against "money changers" to Jews alone but has included "prominent Gentiles, both Catholic and Protestant."

"There would be no Jewish question in the United States," the statement reads, "if certain timid Hebrews would cease searching for the burglar under the bed and if certain other citizens of the Jewish race were courageous enough to condemn publicly, the unsocial Jews, together with the unsocial Christian, both of whom have exploited the poor Jew and the poor Christian throughout civilization.

"If a repetition of such insidious propaganda is persisted in by the lower strata Jew, to the detriment of the better class Jew who outnumbers the former, rest assured that the National Union for Social Justice and the many thousands of Jews who are enrolled therein will not sit idly by.

"We do not plan to assail only Rexford Tugwell and the Gentile radicals who dabble in Communism and international banking. We also plan to strike hard and fearlessly at Frankfurter, at Ezekiel and the Jewish international bankers, by name and by deed."

The Editor's Chair

Readers last week should have noticed the return of several old-time features, and the addition of at least one column which in the past had been used only on infrequent occasions. The old standby, as it were, is Helen Zigmund's "Our Film Folk." Here is recounted the doings of the Jewish colony in Hollywood in breezy, humorous fashion. In addition, Morris Weiner's weekly sport contributions reappeared last week after a long interlude. His writing on Jews in the sports' world will appear as the articles warrant.

A third feature, "Between You and Me," is Paul A. Peters' inside informant on the news.

The addition of these new items should mean a livelier, more diversified paper. Hollywood happenings are always attractive to readers; a "grapevine" column is a prerequisite in these days of practically every newspaper, and sports are certainly a cardinal necessity in the periodical field.

Small as is our paper (we hope it will soon grow larger), only one elemental field is now being overlooked. That is the women's page. At one time this paper devoted a full page to Jewish recipes, styles and other news of interest principally to the more fascinating sex. As soon as space warrants, this page will be returned, too.

I have asked for comments on this paper and its features many times, and the helpful criticism has in no little part determined the composition of the succeeding editions. Now I'd like for some of you readers to tell me what you think about this little nook I reserve for more or less intimate talks with you each week. Is it a waste of space? Or do you find it welcome reading because of its informality. Don't hesitate to criticize. Like a street that's borne up under the daily passage of vehicles for twenty years, I certainly won't complain because some more of you bash me on the head and tell me how much I don't know about editing an Anglo-Jewish publication. Let's hear from you.

Jewish War Vets' Should Drop Pacific Argument

The decision of the Executive Council of the Jewish War Veterans of the United States to continue the long-explained controversy over whether or not Jews are pacifists, which had its inception in original error, is as unwise as it is likely to redound to the discredit, if it has not already done so, of the War Veterans.

When The New York Times reporter carelessly allowed his article on the meeting of the Central Conference of American Rabbis in Cape May, N.J., this summer to state that the Reform Rabbinate has asked for exemption from military service of ALL Jews, his misconception was unfortunate. The day following the printing of the original story, The Times carried a full correction, and it was explained that the rabbis had asked for exemption for those Jews who have religious scruples against war participation.

Unfortunately, the first story gained wide credence and, as is often the case, the retraction was not seen by many who took umbrage at one branch of Judaism declaring, as they had not actually done, that Jews as a whole would like to escape fight, even for their own nation.

Immediately Rabbi Philip Bernstein, chairman of the peace committee of the C. C. A. R., denied the assertion in the original Times story, and pointed out that the paper had made a retraction the following day. Despite Rabbi Bernstein's statement, the Jewish War Veterans denounced the stand of the C. C. A. R. Following this move, Rabbi Samuel Marcuson, secretary of the C. C. A. R., sent out another statement to the same effect as that of Rabbi Bernstein. Evidently even this declaration did not appease the War Veterans.

The newest move of the Jewish Veterans will bring the resolution before the Pittsburgh national encampment. Once again the whole silly controversy will be dragged through the public press. The C. C. A. R. has explained its move to the satisfaction of every thinking Jew or non-Jew, pacifist or soldier.

The War Veterans might do well to remember a controversy that ran for weeks in the letter column of this paper. At that time Commander Poss, Jewish head of the American Legion Post in Chattanooga, pointed out that since Jews were very welcome in existing veteran organizations, there was very little justification for organizing a strictly Jewish group, which, if anything, led to a definite separatism. The War Veterans certainly have been a beneficial influence in American Jewish life. They are among the first to endorse the boycott of German-made goods. Wherever they have organized they have stood as a symbol of the Jew's patriotism and loyalty to the land of his adoption.

The Veterans would do well to delete the discussion of the resolution from their Pittsburgh encampment.

Restraint - - - Courage Or Cordance?

A dum-dum bullet out of the black of night squished into the skull of a man of science, Dr. Levi Billig, first docent of Oriental Sciences in the Arab section of the Hebrew University on Mt. Scopus, robbing the Arabs and the world wantonly of what advancement his obliterated brain might have brought about. Just as wantonly groves and forests, built up laboriously even as Dr. Billig had acquired his knowledge, are ruthlessly destroyed. Sleeping children are murdered in their beds.

And still Jews refrain from attacking, sufficing themselves with arming for defense. Their remarkable restraint is commented on.

It may be restraint, and it may be cowardice.

But while bullets rain on passing buses and trains, taking their inevitable toll, and while groves and forests are uprooted and burned, the Jew continues to eke out his advance day by day, not against the Arab forces, but against the forces which defeated the Arabs more than a thousand years ago—the forces of nature. The Hebrew University Board of Governors, meeting in Zurich, Switzerland, decides to add four new departments to the school's curricula. A new harbor is built at Tel Aviv.

There can be no question of cowardice now. The restraint is the Jews' answer to lawlessness. The Jew is not willing to give up his blessed immigration into the land which, at this writing, may already have been denied him, and he may not take up arms to attack his aggressors, but to show his complete determination he continues his progress, and gives up his life so that this progress may go on uninterrupted. Death is preferable to any action which might prejudice the Jews' case against more immigration of those yearning thousands whose homes in Europe have these many years been hell for them.

This is real courage. It is more than courage. Fighting is partly its own reward, even if the result be defeat. There is a certain nobleness in fighting. But the Jew is yielding even this meagre satisfaction, and taking up arms only where necessary for defense. This indeed is more than courage.

Laugh

This department is beginning to feel like Freckles . . . that beloved character in fiction who "always used to get the blame." . . . Even if completely innocent . . . An alleged news service in a recent column gave some allegedly "inside" stuff on why Dmitri Marianoff, son-in-law of Prof. Einstein, quit the Jewish Forum. . . . We thought the item, if not downright libelous, was in extremely poor taste, to say the least. . . . So imagine our astonishment when Freckles gets the blame. . . . In the form of a lawyer's letter demanding an immediate retraction of "this disreputable and fabricated statement" on pain of a libel action. . . . If Mr. Samuel Fine, attorney for Mr. Isaac Rosengarten, editor of the Forum, had exercised a little legal caution, he would have ascertained the correct authors of that item and would have sent his letters to the real culprit and not to innocent little Freckles. . . . Looks like our handsome pal is in a pretty kettle of jam and had better do some plain and fancy retreating. . . . Too bad we had to scoop you on this one, Phineas, old dear....

Fire

This could have happened only to a poet. . . . It did happen to our own Aleph Katz, poet and J. T. A. Yiddish editor . . . who was engrossed in some work at home one evening recently . . . when he heard some scuffling outside his door . . . but paid no attention . . . until the telephone rang . . . and a friend, from the nearby Cafe Royal, asked in amazed voice: "Are you still home? ! ! ! For Pete's sake, your house is on fire!" . . . And sure enough, it was! . . . That scuffling noise in the hall was made by firemen dragging hose up the stairs. . . . The poet managed to get his family, including an 11-day-old daughter, out of the house just in time to run smack-dab into a gang of news photographers. . . . Incidentally, the 11-day-old daughter spent the night across the way in a Hebrew home for the aged. . . . And not one of the newsmen in their stories of the fire, one of the East Side's biggest in months, thought of playing up the contrast of a newborn babe spending almost her first hours on this earth in a home for the aged. . . . Aleph was more upset by that than by the fire....

Yodel This One

It comes from the Tyrolean Alps via Vienna. . . . a Viennese Jew wanted to spend his vacation at a resort in a Tyrol village. . . . So he wrote asking for terms. . . . Explained that he was a Jew. . . . And asked whether he could expect to receive decent treatment. . . . To which he received a reply from the hotel owner . . . who said it made no difference to him whether his guest was a Jew or an adherent of another faith. . . . he wished, however, to ask one question which the village mayor had instructed him always to ask his future clients. . . . "Is the gentleman an Aryan?" . . .

Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach world-famed bibliophile, spends most of his summer boating on a vessel he calls "First Folio." . . . He'll tell a lot of intimate things about himself in his forthcoming "A Book Hunter's Holiday," on which he is at present engaged in correcting proof. . . . A. Robins, formerly connected with the J. T. A. and The Jewish Daily Bulletin, has been named field director of the American O. R. T. Federation for the eastern states. . . . he opens a drive in Philadelphia on Sept. 8. . . . Irwin Klein, New York University's famous "King Kong" basketball star, seems to have made a hit in Hollywood. . . . he's being hailed as a natural comedian and is expected to

Freedom of the Press

To the Editor:

I am writing to thank you for your past favors and courtesies and to enlist your future cooperation.

As you are aware, I am making a living for my husband who lost his health in an active service in the ministry, by the sale of my book, "I Am a Rabbi's Wife."

I depend not only on rabbis, but also on the Jewish press to aid me in my labors.

This will most likely be my last season with the book. I am especially anxious to sell as many books as possible, since we are moving to Lakewood, New Jersey, on September 1. We are moving to Lakewood because of the better climate there which is more suitable for my husband's condition, especially for winter. Our doctor suggested the change.

With the increased expenses and responsibilities I shall look to all our friends to help us maintain our struggle.

You can help us by a generous news story of the book, quoting some of the opinions from the folder, also stating the purpose for which the book was written and so forth. (The book sells for a minimum price of $2.00.) A number of papers have written editorials and have inserted free advertisements of the book.

I would suggest that you carry an announcement of our moving and our new address, and that I am still selling the book and glad to hear from anyone interested. This would be fitting for the first issue in September. Perhaps something more elaborate would be fitting for the New Year Issue.

Kindly note that I seek this publicity only inasmuch as it can help our cause. Rabbi Bengis joins me in kindest regards and in appreciation.

Very cordially yours,

ESTHER BENGIS.

P. S. Please note that our new address beginning September 1 will be 1404 Monmouth Avenue, Lakewood, New Jersey.

Editor's Note: Since readers will respond quicker to Mrs. Bengis' letter if it is printed in this column, I am taking the liberty of doing so. Orders for the book, which is revealingly interesting, will be taken by this paper, or they may be sent directly to Mrs. Bengis at her new address.

"wow" them in the forthcoming flicker, "The Big Game." . . . Rabbi S. Felix Mendelsohn of Chicago is the author of a book called "Mental Healing in Judaism" scheduled for publication on Sept. 10. . . . The German Zionist Judische Rundschau's recent editorial which used the execution of those 16 Communists in Russia (nine of whom were Jews) to prove how fallacious is the anti-Semitic contention that Jews back Communism, recalls that Zionists here about a year ago criticized the American Jewish Committee for its factual refutation of the same bogey. . . . Dr. J. Kaufman, head of the cultural department of the Vaad Leumi, estimates that one-third of Palestine's Jews speaks Hebrew, one-third knows Hebrew but doesn't speak it and the remaining one-third doesn't know the tongue. . . . Congratulations to David J. Galter on assuming the editorship of The Philadelphia Jewish Exponent. . . . And happy days to Felix N. Gerson, retiring editor, who served in the post for 45 years. . . . The Evening Bulletin of that city paid glowing tribute to the 74-year-old retiring journalist. . . . the Bulletin concludes: "To have successfully con-

Here we are in September and the tingle of autumn is already in the air . . . the heat wave is forgotten and people are beginning to wear clothing a little heavier . . . if there are further doubts that the year is in the evening of its life, one has but to look around to find evidences of the approaching change of season . . .

People returning from their vacations all brown and healthy looking, children preparing to return to school, department stores advertising summer closing out sales and new fall clothing, hay fever sufferers abandoning their handkerchiefs, porch sleepers moving their cots in to warmer regions . . . yes, a general atmosphere of preparedness for fall is apparent . . .

As the fall of the year is moving in one cannot help but be reminded that in Indianapolis Jewry the change of a generation is also taking place . . . the process of changing generations is so slow that it is hardly noticeable if at all, but that it is an actuality can be attested by the fact that the so-called old guard is little by little slipping away and new young eager offspring are stepping in to fill vacancies left by honored and respected parents . . . I am suddenly aware of the fact that kids I used to play with are now grown men and women with families, shouldering responsibility in the community and becoming leaders in their religious circles . . . people whose names awed me some years back as outstanding Jewish personalities and leaders in our synagogues and temples are no more . . . their names are now a memory . . . but it is the way of nature to fill up gaps with others to carry on . . . the youngsters are coming up and they, too, some day will experience and be a part of the change that is to us now taking place . . .

Dedication

Last Sunday there took place on the South Side a spectacle which I had the good fortune to witness . . . that of the dedicating of a new Sefer Torah (scroll of the law) . . . Rabbi Elazer Reuven Muskin of Chicago, Rabbi Samuel A. Katz of the Sharah Tefilla Congregation and Louis J. Borinstein, former president of the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce, were all on the program dedicating the new Torah to the Sharah Tefilla Synagogue . . . the scroll was the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Max Dann of Newcastle, Ind. . . the committee arranging the dedication consisted of Leon Ettinger, Chairman Otto Diamond, Karl Pollak, Louis Bryan, Phillip Kraft, Tanchen Soltken, Jack Rambatz, and Harry S. Joseph . . . the ladies' auxiliary served a buffet supper after the dedication . . . officers of the auxiliary are Mrs. Gus Goldberg, president; Mrs. Karl Pollock, vice president; Mrs. Philip Kraft, treasurer, and Mrs. Sam Michelow, secretary . . . these dedications are beautiful rituals and every Jewish boy and girl should see at least one so that he will know more about the meaning of his religion . . .

Two Pass Away

Last week saw the passing of two Jewish women from our community who had made this city their home for a good many years . . . Mrs. Lina Lichtenstein, a resident of Indianapolis fifty-five years and a member of the Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation passed away, leaving as survivors two daughters, Mrs. Sidney Maholowitz and Mrs. M. B. Sternfels; three sons, Walter B. Lichtenstein of Indianapolis, Sydney Lichtenstein of Chicago; also three brothers and two sisters in Germany . . . the second passing was that of Mrs. Esther Caplan, a resident of Indianapolis for thirty-five years . . . she was a member of the Kneseth Israel Congregation . . . survivors are Morris Caplan, her husband; and four daughters, Mrs. Mary Zimmerman, Mrs. Ruth Brodsky, Miss Lena Caplan, and Miss Dena Caplan, all of Indianapolis . . . and a sister, Mrs. F. Davis, and a brother, I. Goldstein, both of St. Louis . . . The Post joins me in extending sympathy to the families of both of these women . . .

New Car List

Now who do we have on our new car list this week? . . . it seems as if each week there are just three people . . . now it's Leo Shane, a Chevrolet . . . Leo, I think, is in the grocery business . . . Ralph Fink, a Packard—yes, a new one . . . Ralph is in the automobile business and Sam Tuchman, a Studebaker . . . #### MORE MEALS RECOMMENDED

Mothers who prohibit children eating between meals and those who oppose the midnight snack are on the wrong track, according to Yale physiologists. After studying a specific group of people of varying ages they have concluded that efficiency is chiefly a matter of eating—not how much but how often. They recommend that the regular amount of food be spread over at least five meals a day. Their studies indicated that efficiency remains above normal level for only two hours on two meals a day; four hours on three meals; five to six hours on four meals, and seven hours on five meals.

Scout Mordoh also received the Leonard A. Strauss trophy last spring for outstanding work in the troop. This is a double honor in that for the last twenty years no other boy from that troop has been so honored.

Leo Netzorg is Scoutmaster of the troop. Meetings will be resumed for the fall season Sept. 22.

END SEEN FOR STRIKE IN PALESTINE

Immigration Halt Seems Certain As Parley's Outcome

JERUSALEM (JTA)—With violence unabated, the twenty-week-old Arab general strike was believed nearing its end, bringing with it the concomitant fear that Jewish immigration into Palestine would be halted by the government.

Negotiations between high Arab dignitaries and the government through the mediation of Iraq's foreign minister, Nuri Pasha assaid, disclosed that High Commissioner Sir Arthur Grenfell Waughope had submitted assurances that Jewish entry would be stopped and amnesty declared for individual Arabs now imprisoned if the strike and the accompanying violence ceases.

The Iraq statesman informed the Arab leaders that immigration suspension would follow within a fortnight if attacks on Britons and Jews ended.

Counter-proposals by the Arabs consisted of demands for complete amnesty for all natives held for participation in the disorders which started last April and a written governmental guarantee that Jewish immigration would be suspended.

Disorder Continues

Meanwhile, Arab disorders flared anew in various parts of the country, resulting in the deaths of 20 Arabs and the wounding of many others. British troops arrested 30 Arab youths, members of prominent families, after a search of the Jaffa Football Club uncovered a cache of bombs and infernal machines.

Similar explosives carefully packaged and addressed to Jewish residents were discovered by the Criminal Investigation Department in the Tel Aviv railway station. Police broadcast warnings against opening package received from unknown sources.

Arabs for Proposal

Indication of the more lenient attitude of the government to Arab leaders was seen in the release of Auni Bey Abdul Hadi, a leader of the Arab youth movement, from a concentration camp at Sarafand.

Arab leaders were understood to have been informed by the high commissioner that he intends to declare martial law if the peace negotiations carried on by the Iraq diplomat fail.

It was learned that Nuri Pasha, before his recent departure from Palestine, had conferred on the situation with Moshe Shertok, head of the political department of the Jewish Agency for Palestine. Temporary suspension of Jewish migration was said to have been the chief topic of discussion.

Havas News Agency reported that the Arab Supreme Council decided to accept in principle the mediation proposals of the Iraq Foreign Minister.

United Front Urged

Seven Jewish organizations urged uncompromising defense of Zionism and mobilization of world Jewry to save the Jewish National Home, in a cable to the World Zionist Organization Actions Committee in Zurich.

The message asked that the Revisionists, right wing Zionists who bolted the World Zionist Organization, be invited to return, and called upon the Actions Committee to secure adherence to the united front of the Agudath Israel, non-Zionist extreme orthodox group. The seven signatories are the General Zionist Federation, the Miz-

Jewish homes in Tetuan, where Jewish leaders have been arrested and the community forced to "contribute" $60,000 to the rebel cause, are now occupied by insurrectionist troops.

Reports from Spanish Morocco quote spokesmen for the Jews as saying that their situation is growing more intolerable daily and report that rebel commanders are demanding gold tribute from Jewish colonies.

Dr. Wise Declares Holy Land Strife Makes For Unity

NEW YORK (JTA)—Dr. Stephen S. Wise, president of the American Jewish Congress, on his return from the World Jewish Congress in Geneva, expressed the opinion that disorders in Palestine had strengthened the Jewish community.

In an interview with the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, he declared that while immigration to Palestine might be suspended for a time, "it is incredible to believe that Britain should commit the blunder of postponing immigration."

Such an act, he said, would be "a reward to the Arabs for lawlessness and a penalty to the Jews for loyalty and self restraint. Such a blow to the hopes of the Jewish people would be supremely unjust, coming at a time when the need of persecuted Jews for a home of freedom and security was never more urgent."

Discussing the World Congress, Dr. Wise declared that it had two important accomplishments to its credit; first, that it laid the foundations for a permanent body which, in time to come, would win the adherence of all Jews so that the problems affecting the Jewish people in various parts of the world might be dealt with systematically; secondly, that it centered attention on the paramount need of opening the doors of Palestine to an even greater Jewish immigration instead of permitting any restrictions on the progress thus far attained.

rachi, orthodox Zionists; the Jewish State Party, moderate right wing Zionist group within the World Zionist Organization; the Bnei Binyamin, the Artisans Federation, the Landlords Union and the Federation of Yemenite Jews. Soldiers Get Threats

British officers stationed in Jerusalem received death-threat letters bearing the signature "Revolt of the Arab."

The letter, written in clumsy English, says in part:

"You British officers when Arabs speak to you privately, you always disapprove of the stupid policy of the Government and the High Commission in Palestine. You agree with us that we are being treated very unjustly. However, in your official capacity you follow the instructions of the high commissioner and thus act contrary to your conscience and your statements to us. Beware. We are not going to remain on the hills and mountains and shoot people from there. We are coming into the towns and if you don't change your policy we are going to kill you."

U.S. Legislators Urge Britain To Take Firm Stand

WASHINGTON (JTA)—Developments in the Palestine situation came in the face of appeals to Great Britain from four Senators and two Representatives to take immediate steps to halt Arab disorders and not to weaken despite current terrorism. The legislators also requested that the flow of Jewish immigration be continued at its normal status.

Max Rhoade, Washington attorney, a representative of the Zionist Organization of America, announced receipt of telegrams from Senators William H. King, of Utah, David I. Walsh of Massachusetts, Morris Sheppard of Texas and Arthur Capper of Kansas, and Representatives John J. O'Connor, majority leader, and Isaac Bachrach of New Jersey.

The cable from Senator King was sent from San Juan, Puerto Rico, in his capacity as president of the American Palestine Committee, formed a number of years ago under the sponsorship of the late Vice President Curtis. Senators Robert F. Wagner, William E. Borah, Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., and other prominent non-Jewish friends of the Jewish homeland movement. The cable says:

Senator Alarmed

"As president of the American Palestine Committee, I have followed with much anxiety and concern the serious disorders for the past few months in Palestine.

"I do not wish at this time to discuss the reasons for American justified interest in the satisfactory administration of the Palestine mandate. Suffice it to say that these reasons go back to President Wilson's support of Zionism at the Peace Conference. The subsequent mandatory convention with Great Britain, and the Joint Lodge-Fish Resolution adopted by Congress in 1922, and approved by President Harding.

"Most of us, including myself, have refrained from any public expression with regard to Great Britain's policy since the commencement of the current disorders in Palestine several months ago. However, not only has the British Government failed to curb the Arab terror, but the situation is now more alarming than ever, despite the presence of 15,000 troops in the country. This is very curious and disturbing.

"I am convinced we can rely on the good faith of Great Britain to carry out her pledge to the Jews and to the League of Nations for the establishment of the Jewish National Home in Palestine. I therefore strongly urge that if there has been any indecision or lack of firmness by the local officials in utilizing the resources at hand to stop the terror, such a mistake should be rectified by immediate and firm steps to protect those Jews already in Palestine and those who may thereafter seek refuge there.

"The report that a suspension of immigration is contemplated is unthinkable. That has been the prime objective of the Arab terrorists, and surely England will not disclose weakness by yielding. This would not only encourage the blood-stained Arab fanatics into a constant repetition of violence and prejudice the findings of the recently appointed Royal Commission of inquiry, but severely shake the morale of persecuted Jews in Europe, especially in Germany. I sincerely hope Great Britain will speedily vindicate our confidence by immediate and effective action."

Persons Prominent In Philanthropy Plan Testimonial

NEW YORK (Spl.) — Fifteen hundred women, prominent in philanthropic work, will attend a testimonial luncheon which the Women's Division of the Greater New York Campaign of the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee will give in honor of Ms. Herbert H. Lehman, Monday, Sept. 14, at the Hotel Commodore.

Mrs. Amy G. Wyle, chairman of the Women's Division, will preside. Speakers at the luncheon will be Mrs. Felix M. Warburg, Mrs. David E. Goldfarb, the Rev. The proceeds of the luncheon will go to the Greater New York Campaign which is seeking to raise $1,500,000 toward the J. D. C.'s national quota of $3,500,000, the minimum it requires to continue reconstruction work in behalf of the Jews of Germany, Poland and Eastern Europe.

Commenting on the work of the Joint Distribution Committee, Mrs. Wyle said:

United States can raise in support of the activities of the Joint Distribution Committee literally means life to hundreds of thousands of Jewish men, women and children overseas. In Germany more than 400,000 Jews and "non-Aryans" face destruction, if aid such as provided by the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee ceases.

"Of particular pressing importance, from the women's point of view, is the plight of more than 60,000 children between the ages of 6 and 17 who will be deprived of all public schooling in Germany by the end of this year. To help to provide at least minimum educational facilities for these youths is the aim of every right thinking woman in the United States. Hundreds of thousands of Jews physically and morally.

"For these reasons we are determined to bend every effort to exceed the Women's Division quota of $250,000 during 1936 in Greater New York."

The board accepted an offer to establish a chair in English Literature in memory of Sir Moses Montefiore, noted Jewish leader, who died in England in 1885.

In addition, the board authorized establishment of a chair of Theoretical Pedagogy and endorsed in principle the establishment of a chair of Talmudic law.

by sharing one's good things with less fortunate persons, and said the example should inspire others to do likewise.

Mr. Goldberg's daughter, Dorothy, was married to Dr. Henry Turkel.

Rochester Rabbi Sees Roosevelt And Landon To Plead For Peace

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (NCJC) — Rabbi Philip S. Bernstein of Rochester outlined to President Roosevelt and Governor Landon the ideals of religious and peace movements with regard to the outlawing of war and the militaristic tendencies which are disturbing the religious workers of the country.

Rabbi Bernstein called on President Roosevelt in his Hyde Park home, where he discussed the matter of armaments with the President. Speaking as chairman of the peace committee of the Central Conference of American Rabbis, he voiced approval of Mr. Roosevelt's "good neighbor" policy, commended his renunciation of what he termed "dollar diplomacy," praised the reciprocal trade agreements that have been put into effect, and urged that the neutrality program of the administration be continued and extended.

President Interested

However, although recognizing the President's achievements on behalf of peace, Rabbi Bernstein said the Central Conference is "disturbed at the enormous increase in armaments" and urged the President to take the initiative in revising the Nation's armament policy.

"You have a unique opportunity," he told the President, "at a time when many of the most powerful nations are governed by warmakers, to lead the world as a peacemaker. Armaments never bring peace—in fact, all previous armament races have led to war."

President Roosevelt expressed deep interest in Rabbi Bernstein's views and said he wished to arrange another meeting in the near future at which the two could talk over the armament question more fully.

Sees Landon

Rabbi Bernstein called upon Governor Landon during his visit to Buffalo, where he addressed the Republican nominee as spokesman for the People's Mandate Committee Against War.

Referring to Governor Landon's plea the night before for freedom and democracy, Rabbi Bernstein said:

Co-operation Asked

"Governor Landon, not you nor the President of the United States, nor anybody in the world can guarantee to the American people enduring freedom and democracy unless they can also assure an enduring peace. And that is why we are here today. We represent the largest constituency in the United States, the peace lovers of this country, the men and women and children who because they know war is the enemy of everything they cherish, are prepared to follow the leadership of peace."

"Governor Landon, in the name of our children and our youth, in the name of religion and the noblest patriotism, in the name of the very freedom and democracy for which you spoke so eloquently last night, we appeal to you to give your strength to the forces of peace. Make clear to the American people that you have greater faith in international friendships than in battleships to preserve the peace."

"Let us understand that you believe large armaments breed war, not peace, and that economic isolation brings poverty, not prosperity. Tell us that although you would not involve us in every European quarrel, you would also, if elected, cooperate in every international effort making for world peace and prosperity."

Governor Landon said, in reply: "I recognize that war is the greatest threat to freedom and democracy . . . I have made it clear how much I am in sympathy with your ideals to avoid war."
